Interviews

This interview taught me about the blacklisting of several workers after their open participation in the strike. The interviewee was a striking rayon girl in 1929. She saw first-hand how the Bemberg and Glanzstoff plant managers blacklisted some of the women following the strike settlement.

Audio/Visual

This song helped me to provide a uniquely East Tennessee viewpoint within my documentary.

Articles

This journal article addresses the current struggles farmers in Appalachia and across the American South face and the ongoing nature of these struggles since the fall of the Old South’s plantation economy.

Books

Daisy Bates was the president of the Arkansas NAACP and the one who met and listened to the students each day. This firsthand account was very important to my paper because it made me more aware of the feelings of people involved.
